Late or make-up homework and assignments will not be accepted, except in the case of extended illness or absence from the University. Each student’s lowest assignment and homework will be dropped.

5 Classroom Conduct
Students are expected to avoid behavior that distracts others from the topics and tasks during course meetings. Cell phones should be quiet. Computers should only be used if needed for course activities. If you need to make a phone call, send text messages or surf the web, feel free to step out into the hallway and rejoin the class when you finish.

6 Academic Integrity
Students should familiarize themselves with the Emory College honor code. catalog.college.emory.edu/academic/policies-regulations/honor-code.html
Students are encouraged to share ideas and solutions on practice assignments. They are not authorized to use the work of another student during in-class quizzes or exams.

7 Harassment
From the Emory University policies, available at policies.emory.edu/1.3
Discriminatory harassment of any kind, whether it is sexual harassment or harassment on the basis of race, color, religion, ethnic or national origin, gender, genetic information, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, veterans status, or any factor that is a prohibited consideration under applicable law, by any member of the faculty, staff, administration, student body, a vendor, a contractor, guest or patron on campus, is prohibited at Emory.

8 Accessibility
The Emory College of Arts and Sciences supports equal access for students with disabilities. Any students needing special accommodations due to a disability should speak with someone in the Office of Equality and Inclusion as soon as possible. www.equityandinclusion.emory.edu/access/index.html
Accommodations cannot be granted without a letter from the office. They also cannot be granted retroactively.
